

Claire Collins - Subject Area Leader

Leadership and Change

Claire began her career in the UK National Health Service, firstly in a clinical role, finishing in 2000 as Assistant Director of Planning and Information in a large NHS Trust. She undertook her MBA at Henley Management College, which enabled her to take on the role of CEO in a London law firm. Claire also became a qualified Business Coach.

She joined Henley Business School in early 2007 as Director of the Henley Partnership, and held this role until 1 November 2009 when she moved fully into the School of Management to be Subject Area Leader for Leadership and Change. Claire follows a research interest in how leaders develop, different leadership models, and the philosophy of human ecology in developing the behaviour of leaders.

Claire is currently doing doctoral research in Developing Leaders and Coaching at the University of Warwick.
